Hi David,

Chris and I discussed this and have the following inputs:

1. The Federal a Records Center is used to store the records for PDP for 25 years per CFR requirements.
2. That said, we have never had to retrieve any PDP data packages from the Center.

Finally, not sure how useful it would be to look at raw data from 7-10+ years ago.

On another issue, how does the week of November 16 look for you for a Sampling Frame meeting with NASS? Jo Marie is available that week, but we would still need to check with NASS.

Thanks,
Diana

Dear Chris and Diana,

I have this feeling that you might have some ideas or recommendations. Too, if you have any drawbacks that would be good to tell them as well.

David

David, the companies involved in the OP Market Basket Survey are being asked if they want to continue storing the raw data from the late 90's survey and analysis (chromatograms, notebooks etc.). The original contracts were to store it for 10 years and then destroy. It is now 15 years. The task force members would need to pay for the additional storage and for future if we think we need to keep them.

I do not think there would be any reason to go back to the raw data at this point? I do not think the data would be useful in current assessments either as it is so old.

Do you know if there is any policy on this or give us your thoughts or forward to the appropriate person at HED?

Thanks, Jennifer
